

OVER THE EDITOR'S DESK

BY ORAN ASA

It's too bad that we have a very small few egotistical, self-centered, narrow-minded, deaf, dumb, and totally blind students in school, who are in a position where they can curb anything worthwhile, if it is not to their exact liking.

IN THE ASSOCIATED Student office rests a large silver football with the words "Southern California Junior College Association Football Championship", and Santa Ana, 1929". It has been there almost one year now, but soon it is to take its last look at the inside walls of the Santa Ana case. Return—Well, not telling when. It represents the efforts of last year's "Don" eleven—the best football team that ever represented Santa Ana—they did not defeat themselves at crucial moments. They took tail-enders as seriously as league-leaders.

THE NAME OF Arthur M. Artlett, editor of "The Daily Californian" is again blazing forth in the headlines and banners. Not long ago Artlett published an editorial, stating that junior colleges were parasites to state funds. Now Artlett, who by the way, has through the publicity of such statements assured himself of a good job at graduation, states that a certain California university's football team is subsidized. That statement, apparently ungrounded, has stirred up the sport world. One of the biggest "breaks" in the football world is looming. A student editor started it. A prominent Los Angeles columnist states: "Times have changed greatly and in the progress of education we find that student publications rule the roost."

WATCH THE JUNIOR LION'S eight-room house burn Friday night. Join the caravan out to the fire. Help work up that "spirit". To beat Fullerton this year in no easier task than it was last year; in fact comparative scores give the Yellowjackets the edge. Of course, our Dons, defeated in their last two starts will be out to atone for their "mishaps", and as Fullerton is the next in line, the traditional enemy, and the last game of the season, the Dons may open up and play the football they are capable of.

BUT ON THE OTHER HAND, the Fullertonites feel exactly the same way about the game. Not only does the usual conditions exist, but an added feature is prompting the Yellowjackets. Some fifty bearded masculine students are banking on a win. Their beards are getting itchy, their "steadies" are forgetting, and their razors are getting rusty. Only a win over the Santa Ana Dons will save them. If the locals defeat the Yellowjackets, several Fullerton barbers will have to close their doors, and some fifty students will cast longing and appreciative eyes at the clean-shaven face of the Santa Ana Don.

To make a long story short Fullerton is out to "lick" Santa Ana, and will not accept the short end of the score. "The Weekly Torch", Fullerton publication, states: "Fullerton might lose all her games, but wind up with a win over the Dons, and the season would be a success."

AGAIN WE COMPLIMENT the Santa Ana junior college print shop, to have a book, printed on the Junior College Press, invited to compete in the contest for the "fifty books of the year" exhibit contest, deserves more praise than we can give. The book "Camino Viejos" has also meant $150 to the student loan fund, and how much it will contribute is not known.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGIAN of Los Angeles states, in commenting upon their year-book being awarded first prize at the recent convention, that they feel justifiably proud. We didn't see the other entries either, but we feel also JUSTIFIABLY proud that our annual was given high recommendation.

YOU MAY BE wondering why we have been giving the 6-4-4 plan such a "splurge" in our paper the last few weeks. "The Don" originally intended, and still intends, to take a vote of the students on the question of 6-4-4. The argument then arose that most of the students did not know what the plan represented. We have tried to outline the plan. A straw vote is to be taken among the students soon.

If Santa Ana is to get the plan, it is only fair to the students affected to know what they are getting.

JUNIOR LIONS MAKE PLANS FOR BONFIRE

Rally November 26

Judge Morrison Entertains Club At Annual Father And Son Banquet

At the regular meeting of the Dones, 1047 West Second street, final plans were made for the college rally to rouse interest and spirit for the Fullerton game to be played Saturday, November 29, after Thanksgiving. Because of the misunderstanding in regard to the time scheduled for the game, the rally has been set for Wednesday evening, November 26. It was decided to have it then rather than Friday night, for there is no school on that day, and there would no doubt be a poor attendance because so many students go home over the holidays.

In brief, the schedule of events for the Junior Lions rally will be a caravan through town led by a truck carrying the football team, stopping at a large two-story frame house presented by Homer Chaney, president of the Santa Ana Senior Lions club, to be burned the night of the rally, and speeches by Coach Cook, Al Kluthe, Ray Glesner, Junior Lions president, and members of the football team. There will be the annual Soph-Frosh pole rush, a sack rush, and a tug-o-war. Humpty Golder and Howard Barnes will lead yells, and the students will serpentine around the burning house.

"Y" Deputation Team Is Giving Programs

Continuing with the varied work in churches of Santa Ana and vicinity, the college "Y" deputation team has succeeded in building up a lasting reputation by their effort to broaden the field of Christianity among young people.

Working in union with all young peoples' societies of local churches, the deputation team sends two or three representatives to take charge of the meeting and give short talks on subjects of particular interest to members of that group.

Mitchell Hooks, vice-chairman of the team, and Robert Williams spoke at the First Baptist Church, Garden Grove, last Sunday evening. Marian Nau, talented Don violinist, gave several musical numbers, accompanied on the piano by his sister. Future engagements for programs at Santa Ana Churches have not yet been announced.

Brotherhood of Bachelors Plans For Fullerton Rooting

That every student who sits in the rooters section at the Fullerton football game on September 29 will have to have a special ticket, was the action taken by the Brotherhood of Bachelors at the regular meeting Monday night at the home of Wayne Garlock, 511 South Flower St.

The Bachelors have charge of the rooting section at the game and will startled enthusiasts for the annual classic next Tuesday by passing out booster cards to be worn by the students. Pledges will give out cards during assembly and will continue for the rest of the week. The pledges will also give out the rooters tickets and no person will be admitted to the special rooting section at Fullerton without a ticket.

The final initiation for the pledges will be held on December 1 at the home of Warren Schutz, Grand Exalted Bachelor, in Anaheim. Instead of a full five days of "Hell Week", the "Scums" will have three rigid days of servitude before Thanksgiving and then receive their final rites after the Fullerton game. The initiation will end a six week term of pledgeship for the 16 pledges. "Hell Week" is always eagerly an-

Sir Hubert Wilkins Will Speak In Santa Ana Monday

Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, famed arctic and antarctic adventurer, is to speak in Santa Ana Monday night, November 24. He is brought here through the auspices of the Santa Ana Ebells club. The lecture is scheduled for 2:30 with students admitted for 25 cents.

Captain Wilkins was a passenger on the recent Graf Zeppelin flight, writing news for the daily papers. He has been interested in flying since 1910. In 1926 he began to develop the aeronautical side of polar expeditions. In that year he and the great pilot, Ben Eilson were the first men that ever flew an airplane across the Arctic.

In 1927 he was the first to land on floating polar ice and the first who ever came ashore unaided from a forced descent on any ocean a long distance from land. In 1928 he was the first to fly across the Antarctic from Alaska to Europe.

Gauchos Pledge Seven Students For Membership

Constitution Of Club Is Accepted By Members

Final initiation rights were tendered four former pledges of "La Compania de los Gauchos" at a meeting held at the home of Calvin Stillwell on south Main street last Monday night. The program of the evening also included the acceptance of seven new pledges to the organization. With the completion of all the pledgeships now in progress, the total of membership of the club will be brought to a total of 21, and will close the membership for this semester, although several new pledges will be received in February when the new term begins.

As Lawson Watkins, president of the Gauchos was unable to be present at the first part of the evening ceremonies, Cardwell Oglesby, as vice-president, took charge of the meeting. Secretary read the Constitution as it has been revised, and an informal discussion was held over it with the pledges as well as members taking part in it. After a short deliberation, it was accepted as read, and it was also voted to draw up a series of by laws for the organization to follow the constitution.

Y. M. and Y. W. Stages First Of Series Of Special Religious Meets

"The greatest movements start from small groups, and gradually expand until they become enormous", was the statement of Rev. Allen Hunter, pastor of the Hollywood Congregational church, in his lecture to the students of Santa Ana junior college yesterday. Rev. Hunter was brought here through the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. The assembly was the first of several that the combined "Y's" will put on during the year.

"We all come to a point where we must go one way or the other; up or down. If we go down, we end up in a dead sea, a stagnant sea. If we go up, we immerge with new personalities."

Speaking of the college education, Rev. Hunter stated that it served as a good way to protect the person from the hazards and brutality of the outside world.

Rev. Hunter is considered as one of the foremost in the west on the question of the christian student. For the past several years he has been one of the leaders at the annual Asilomar conference. This conference is the biggest event of the year for the "Y's".

Preceding the lecture, Marion Nau played two violin solos. Nau is the violinist for the "Y" deputation team, which is giving entertainments every Sunday night at the various churches of the county.

Before the assembly was turned over to Bob Williams, Y. M. president, Arval Morris, president of the Fullerton Junior College students, invited Santa Ana to a dance on the night of the annual Santa Ana-Fullerton football game. Ray Glesner, president of the Junior Lions announced that the big rally that was originally scheduled for Friday night, was postponed until November 26. The Lions have full charge of the rally.

Discussion Group Scheduled By "Y"

What is Modernism and Fundamentalism? Such is the topic to be discussed at the "Y" discussion tomorrow in room 5 at 11:00. All men students of the college are invited. No preparatory work is required.

These discussions are in charge of a leader who brings the problems before the group and then the individuals discuss them progress lively. Everyone is given a chance to express his ideas on the subject before the group.

The last discussion was held Thursday, November 6. The question discussed was the revelation of the bible. Lawson Watkins presided at this meeting.

Unforeseen Difficulties Halt Directory Progress

Because of some unforeseen difficulties and press of other work, it will be necessary to delay the distribution of the Press club directory for another week, it was learned from club officials.

A large sheaf of copy, containing the names of all the students between the letters H and P, is mysteriously missing from the Don office and it will take considerable time to recopy these names, check over for the class of each and specify whether or not the student is an Associated Student. It is probable that by next Wednesday, the book will be ready for distribution.

Mid-term examinations prevented much work on the directory during the past week but the last threads of work have been completed and the book is entirely in the print shop.

Fullerton Jaycee's President Invites S. A. J. C. to Dance

Arval Morris, student president of the Fullerton junior college appeared at the regular assembly yesterday, and extended an invitation to the Santa Ana junior college to all the students of the college to a dance, to be given by the Fullerton college to Santa Ana junior college. Santa Ana junior college Associated Student tickets will serve as tickets.

The dance is to be in the Fullerton gymnasium, on November 29, the night of the annual Fullerton-Santa Ana football battle, and is scheduled to begin at 9:00.

Last year after the historic battle, at which time the Dons defeated the Yellowjackets on th last play of the game, Santa Ana entertained Fullerton with a dance in Andrews gymnas-

Camino Viejos To Compete For Best Book Prize

Local Print Shop Book Will Exhibit In N. Y. Library

Thomas E. Williams, head of the junior college printing department, was wearing a broad smile today, as a result of an invitation received from The American Institute of Graphic Arts of New York City, to enter the book "Camino Viejos", printed entirely in the Santa Ana junior college press this last summer, in the contest for the "Fifty Books of the Year" award.

"Camino Viejos was written by Terry E. Stephenson, Santa Ana postmaster, and printed under the direction of Williams in the college print shop this last summer. It is a history of Orange county, and pictures the old Spanish life of Orange county, when it was a part of Mexico, and after, in a simple, yet fascinating fashion. The printing work is exceptional, having gained favorable comment from coast to coast. Several large city newspapers have devoted several columns to it.

The book will be on exhibition in the New York City Library for several weeks. From the collection, the "fifty best" will be chosen, and the fifty best will take a tour of the United States, stopping in all large cities of the nation, and putting on exhibits.

The awards are given on the basis of application of the job to the subject matter. Williams will mail the entry within the next few days.

Pledges Recite Amusing Events At Meeting of Spinster Members

Pledges furnished the entertainment at the last meeting of the Sisterhood of Spinsters held in Tustin at the home of Marguerite Lentz. The preceding week the pledges were presented with a list of tasks to have been completed by the regular meeting this week. Mary Isch was in charge of the program and presented the "scums" in an amusing way. Several themes were read on such subjects as "The Spinster's Ideal Man", What It Means to be a Spinster Pledge, and "My Duties as a Pledge". Margaret Gardner and Nelle Crafton presented stunts for the amusement of the members. Grace Skinner gave an amusing recital of the dates she has had with the opposite sex since becoming a pledge. These were judged and more praise and punishment was meted out.

A club song was discussed and Sherrill was given the task of finding a song that suitable words could be set to. The remainder of the pledges that had not presented some stunt on the program prepared the refreshments and then were invited to do a little domestic service for Mrs. Lentz.

PRES. MASON WILL ATTEND PREXY MEET

Meet At Sacramento

Christmas Dance To Be At S. A. Country Club December 18

It was decided at the regular meeting of the Executive Board last Monday night in the Associated Student office to send their president, Abbot Mason, to Sacramento December 12 and 13 to attend the semi-annual meeting of the state junior college student president convention.

It was also decided to hold the annual Christmas dance at the Santa Ana country club on Thursday night, December 18. It was announced by Mayelle Ball, Social commissioner that the favors would be a secret. Punch and programs are to be the features.

Two new megaphones were authorized by the board to be bought by the men's athletic commissioner, to replace the present ones that are pretty well worn out.

The question of a student store was taken up, and discussed by the board, but laid on the table until next meeting.

Those present at the meeting were: Abbot Mason, president; Warren Schutz, vice-president; Betty Maloney, year-book commissioner; Maybelle Ball, Social commissioner; Oran Asa, "The Don" commissioner; Tommy Cone, men's athletic commissioner; and Marion Parsons, women's athletic committees.

Fullerton Women Defy Dirty Cords

FULLERTON JUNIOR COLLEGE, November 10—Women seem to be ruling the campus and the men nowadays. The last dance turned out to be a women's cheat, with the women making all the advances. Now the A. W. S. is giving a dance for which women make their own dates, and in last week's paper they condemned the men for wearing dirty cords.

Rumors of protest have been heard from the male students of the campus who are loyally defending their cords and their traditions. Perhaps it would be wise for the women not to go too far in their protestations about the personal matters of the men, for several can remember what happened to a certain group of women who protested about the beards that the males were sporting.

same evening the members discussed the coming initiation. Plans are being formulated under the direction of Margery Arams, pledge mistress and her committee. As the end of the pledge period is December first, it was decided to hold the initiation the week preceding. Grace Marcher reported that it will be possible to obtain a ten room house at Balboa Island for the Thanksgiving week end. A committee if investigation was appointed by the Supreme Spinster, Betty Maloney to take charge of this matter. It was decided to hold a special meeting later in the week to make definite plans for the house party.

Members present at the last meeting were: Betty Maloney, AdaMarie Hendrissen, Margaret Wilson, Betty Wiswall, Margery Adams, Grace Marcher, Phyllis O'Conner, Marion Parson, Helen Hendricks, Margery Walton, Mary Todd Tate, Marguerite Lentz, hostess, and the two advisors Mrs. Sundquist and Mrs. Livenspire. Pledges are: Nelle Crafton, Grace Skinner, Bernice Keller, Sherrill Spurgeon, Bernice Summers, Peggy Paige, Mary Isch, Helen Spangler, Wilma Paterson, and Margaret Gardner.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The "Junior College Dodge"

A prominent Los Angeles sport columnist states, in commenting upon the football "situation": "The colleges tighten up, and the business of getting past the registrar and into the classroom is something that the young man wearing a 6 hat and a 16 shirt finds increasingly difficult. Then there is the 'junior college' dodge, which is nothing more nor less than the varsity back door, the football speakeasy. Mr. Joe Lunkhead, a great athlete, finds college portals closed to one of his mental hazards, but the junior college wide open. Two years of this and the university portals take on a putty-ésque makeup."

Requirements are just as stiff in junior college to get the junior certificate as they are in the larger universities. If Mr. Lunkhead made the grade in junior college and gained admittance to the four-year college, it is our opinion that his name has ceased to be Mr. Lunkhead. If Mr. Lunkhead does nothing at junior college but play football, he is soon dropped from the team as an ineligible—that has happened, and not any small number of times.

For a junior college to say, "So and so (who happened to be a great athlete, but still Mr. Lunkhead) has fully met our requirements for graduation, and is fully qualified to carry on upper-division work," would be folly. The following failure of Mr. Lunkhead would give a "black eye" to the junior college. A "black eye" means that later graduates will have a harder time gaining entrance. And, don't fool yourself, gaining entrance to the four-year institution does not necessitate merely two years of attendance at a junior college—not by a long way.

The athlete may have been Mr. Lunkhead on entrance into junior college, but when the J. C. recommended him to the upper-division of the four-year institution, he is no longer known by that name—"Lunkhead" has been dropped. To gain the J. C. certificate it had to be detached.

The intimation of the columnist that junior colleges act as "varsity backdoors" and "speakeasies" to football is weak. To get more mathematical, it is doubtful if more than five players on either of the three big teams of California can be named from their roster, and if two junior college transfers on any of three named teams can be found playing first-string, our wires are crossed.

Check up on many of the junior college students in any of the four-year colleges, who hold junior college certificates, and their names will not be Mr. Lunkhead. In fact, it has been proved several times that the junior college transfer rates better grades than the student who spent his freshman and sophomore year at the same college.

The Artificial Nerve

The following was taken from one of last Sunday's papers: "Engineers have established an analogy—almost, I would say, an identity—between certain electrical impulses that are man-made and those mysterious signals which travel along our nervous systems. Research men work with 'An artificial nerve', an electrical apparatus, noting that the sheath of the 'fastest nerve' of the body, that which controls the eye blinker, is perforated in a certain way, they have similarly perforated the covering of this artificial nerve, by so doing have increased its speed, and have even worked out mathematically why this acceleration occurs. They dream of two startling possibilities:

1.—The delivery of the electrical impulses of sound directly to the acoustic nerve of deaf persons, so that the brain hears sounds without the intervention or aid of the human ear.
2.—If some method can be found of delivering audiowaves through the skull to the acoustic nerve, then, one of our engineers believes, the telephone receiver, with all its distortions, may be eliminated."

STUDENT COMMENT

OUR SOCIAL OBLIGATION

The fellow students of Santa Ana junior college are all proud to share in the responsibilities of a well conducted student body. We realize our obligations to those true Dons and Donas who are our predecessors in the formation of our highest ideals. We wish to conduct ourselves according to those gallant traditions which have so carefully been handed down to us. At all social affairs we will keep in mind those little courtesies which have given our school the high regard it holds today.—Maybelle Ball.

Student Store

Last week our editor asked for comment on the proposed student store.

The idea of such a project in our school presents unnumberable advantages, chief of which is to the students as individuals. Think of being able to buy a book at a price within the bounds of reason. If we had a co-op store such a thing would be possible, for the necessary evils of high overhead, salaries, and a large margin of profit would be eliminated.

Of course we can hardly expect the merchants to sell us books, athletic goods and supplies as cheaply as a co-op store could.

Our paper depends entirely upon advertising for its existence and as long as there aren't enough merchants in a town of 35,000 with enough guts to spend a little money creating student good-will for themselves and at the same time supporting something that means a whole lot to us why not show them that we are just a little bigger than they are?

A co-operative store would do this and more. As long as some people think that advertising in our paper is just charity, why not show them that it isn't. Part of the proceeds from our own unit could go to the "Don",—we could be dependent of advertisers and then some people would learn just how much it is worth to advertise in a college paper.—Lauren Griggs.

Santa Ana Orchestra Plays At Orange High

Santa Ana junior college's jazz orchestra, which made such a hit a few weeks ago in a jaycee assemblies, yesterday entertained the Orange high school. It was the regular weekly Orange assembly.

The orchestra was organized a few weeks ago by Wayne and Everett Idler. The members of the orchestra are: Everett Idler, drums; John Crowley, piano; Johnny Farrar, Don Dresser and Irvin Cause, saxophones; Wayne Flinn, trombone; Don Abbott, trumpet; and Louis Romoff, violinist.

membership of good standing. They were Howard Barnes, Rex "Hodges" Woodward, Cecil Slaback, and Fred Davis. The induction ceremony over, the newly elected members were able to take part in the fourth degree pledge which was administered the seven prospects.

Those present aside from the seven new pledges were: Lawson Watkins, Cardwell Oglesby, Calvin Stillwell, Frank Mansur, Howard Barnes, Manfred Mueller, Fred Davis, Roy Arms, Eldon Bragg, Rex "Hodges" Woodward, Ed Kilbourne, and Cecil Slaback. The faculty adviser, H.A. Scott was also present, and the final plans were made for the mountain party to be held at the former's cabin.

LOOK OUT BELOW!

It happened in Anaheim at the annual Armistice Day parade, "Sky" Dunlap was enjoying the serene calm of a November morning and basking in the fruits of his victories when unannounced and unannounced, there came out of the sky a hundred and fifty anvils on top of him. Now this would put to flight an ordinary person, but I suppose that "Sky", in a very indecorous manner, pulled out a Murad and calmly was as nonchalant as, well as nonchalant as a nonchalant person can be under ordinary circumstances. You can imagine how embarrassing it would be to see a hundred and fifty anvils plunging out of space and being aimed at oneself, and you can imagine how very nonchalant a person can be under such conditions. Mr. Dunlap's favorite son, John, with great diligence and dexterity avoided the rain of anvils and escaped with the hair of his noble skull still intact.

CORTEX-NICAL TROUBLES

Test tomorrow. I can't study to-night, I'm too sleepy. I'll go to bed and wake up early in the morning and study, I will. If I don't wake up at 5:30, it will be just too bad.

Now, old bean, you, cortex, especially. I command you to awaken me at 5:30 sharp, no later now. I can surely trust you, but I wouldn't trust that thalamus or that medulla oblongata, for all their high-sounding names. It all depends on you, Cortex. I appoint you alarm clock just for tomorrow morning. You are the sentinel while I sleep. Don't let oblivion conquer you. To the defense.

Next morning I awake at 6:30. My cortex must be getting old and feeble, in spite of its activities. I feel sorry for it. It must need a vacation.

CAN YOU FEATURE?

Across the frozen sands we tripped—I mean burning sands. Into the valley of the shadow of death—I mean, valley of death, rode the Six Hundred. Cannons to right of us, can nuns to left of us—and not a drop to drink. Under the spreading chestnut tree, there is no place like home. When freedom from her mountain height cries "Twinkle Twinkle, little star." Shoot if you must this old grey head, but I'd rather it would be your own instead, King Henry of Navarre. Roll on, thou dark and deep, blue crag of Nechenfells. My name is Norville of the Grampin hills; ring out wild bells. If you're waking, call me early. To be or not to be. On Chester, on! Charge Stanley, Charge! The boy stood on the burning deck, eating peanuts by the peck, but I go on for ever!

I may have been a little mixed up in my literature, but this is a feature and is not written to be published.

NAVY BLUES

Did'ja read about the midshipmen's love affairs at the Annapolis Naval Academy? No? You surely ought to, it would make you appreciate Santa Ana Junior College. How'dja like it if you could see your girl (or some else's girl) for just one hour a week? And then you had only 45 minutes to get her home, and get back to school? What's more, you have to walk both ways. What a life!

The navy, so the report goes, has two official girl kissing times. (But, oh, the unofficial times) Supposin' you want to write to your best girl, not the one you're running around with at college, but the one back home whom you told was the only girl. Then you must sneak into the shower rooms, for that is the only place where the lights can be turned on without showing outside where an officer is apt to see them. When the girl gets the letter, she thinks that it is covered with tear drops, and it makes her very happy, but in reality, it is only drippings from a leaky shower.

The report goes further to state that no smoking is allowed, and if caught the punishment is severe. Now if one time a week which you get to have your girl on the campus, you are walking along with a cigarette in your mouth, and officer approaches you, you slip the aforementioned cigarette to the girl, and the most the officer can do to them is to ask her not to smoke on the grounds. I wonder if that would work with a cigar, or mabe a pipe?

Yeah, the Navy's a great life (if you don't weaken), but as for me, give me the Advantages of the Junior College.

ROBBERS?

"I wonder why we don't get our milk as we used to? I'm sure I heard the milkman come this morning."

"Yes, he came. I heard him too."

"Well, call up the dairy and find out for sure whether or not he left it."

"That's queer, they say he left the regular two quarts on the back porch. And what's more, they say he has done so every single morning. We'll have to watch for it in the morning. Probably some of the neighbors think they need it more than we do."

Next morning at 3:00.
"Here he comes, Susie. He's bringing it. We'll just wait up and see what happens."

Two hours passed and nothing happened.
"Let's go back to bed. It'll be there this morning, all right."

And just as they had crawled back into bed, a large German Police dog picked up the bottle and carried it over to the next door neighbor.

Longfellows Start Work On Fashion Show

Six-Footers' Parade Entry Declared Big Success

Active work on the Longfellow fashion show to be presented December 2 in assembly, is scheduled to begin tonight when the six footers met in the print shop from 7 to 8 p. m. it was stated by club officials this week.

Now that the other two major projects of the club the floats in the Halloween and Armistice Day parade, are things of the past, the full attention of the organization will be focused on the fashion show in an effort to surpass the presentation of last year and set a new high mark in local productions. All members of the cast will wear dresses and many comical innovations are being planned.

The Sisterhood of Spinsters, under the direction of Miss Marion Parsons, commissioner of women's athletics is providing the dresses for the occasion. Between 20 and 35 members have signified their intention to be in the show. The plan of a real fashion show will be carried out to the last detail and the assistance of Earnest Crozier Phillips, dramatics coach will be used later. An Austin automobile will also be used.

Despite the adversity of a high wind and the press of examinations, the Longfellows entered a float in the Armistice Day parade at Anaheim and created much attention. The float carried out the idea of the village blacksmith under the spreading chestnut tree, written by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. The entry represented the state of Maine, Longfellow's birthplace. A small truck was used to haul a trailer carrying a complete village scene, including the blacksmith shop, forge, anvil, chestnut tree and other appropriate scenery.

Bill Schooling, stripped to the waist, acted as the blacksmith and had John "Sky" Dunlap, president of the club, for a helper. An old farmer sat on a plow while a typical village urchin played around on the float. The blacksmith shop was small but realistic. Large signs were painted for the float by Abbott Mason, associated student president.

Behind the float, a collegiate Ford groaned under the weight of a group of members, all wearing the Derby hat, official club insignia. With smoke pouring out of the forge, the blacksmith pounding on the anvil and the startling array of Derbies, the club made a striking appearance.

The members were wearing their Derbies again today, as is the custom every Wednesday. The organization now has 48 members, all over

Moav Members Prepare For Meeting At San Juan Springs

On account of the weather, the Moavs held their business meeting in the "Y" Hut, Monday noon, instead of the Student Center as had been planned.

The meeting consisted of reports from the committees who are planning for the coming house party. The house party will be held at San Juan Capistrano Hot Springs over Friday and Saturday of the Thanksgiving vacation.

The girls will leave Santa Ana early Friday morning and return late Saturday night or Sunday. A wonderful time has been planned, and the committees have been working hard so as to have the party as lively as possible.

O. K. Club Meets At Laguna Beach

Margery Burns acted as hostess to members of the O. K. club last Friday night when she entertained them at her home in Laguna Beach.

Business occupied the earlier part of the meeting at which time plans were made for the annual O. K. Drag, which will be carried out in a manner similar to last year's January 16, was set as a tentative date for the affair and 50c a couple as the price of admission.

Business being concluded with a delightful informal bridge party was held. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her mother, after which part of the group adjourned to the Rendezvous ballroom, Balboa, where dancing was enjoyed.

The entire float Armistice Day was built by club members with "Sky" Dunlap, Julian Lecrivain, "Truck" Lindsey and Charles Waters in charge. Those representing the club in the parade were "Sky" Dunlap, Bill Schooling, "Truck" Lindsey, Eldon Bragg, Charlie Greenleaf, Chet Cook, Ray Kohler, Oliver Aufdemberg, Julian Lecrivain, Bob Baker, Don Schurr, Al Kluthe, Harry Motley, Ed Meador, Max Appleby, Charles Waters, Martin Bowman, and Miss Corinne Lecrivain. Coach Bill Cook also acted as mascot for the float for part of the parade.

French Club Announces Xmas Party To Be Held December

Following action taken at a recent meeting of L'Hotel de Rambouillet, advanced French club, seven members of the organization motored to the University of California at Los Angeles last Friday night to see "Le Medicin Malgre Lui", a play presented by a French section of the university.

The play was presented especially for students of Southern California schools and is an annual event. Gorgeous costumes and scenery was secured from the Hollywood movie companies to add color and variety to the production. Miss Lella Watson, adviser of the club and instructor of French in the Santa Ana junior college, assisted the local collegians by preparing briefs of the play in advance.

Following the play, the Santa Ana party played a round of miniature golf in Hollywood recently promoted by Mary Pickford.

Those enjoying the evening were Velma Bishop, Evelyn Parks, Maie Moog, Helen Estock, Louella Marshall, Julien Lecrivain and John "Sky" Dunlap. Miss Watson was unable to go because of a previous engagement.

Geology Students Take Pala Outing

Geology student of the IA, II, and 51A left the junior college campus Saturday morning at six thirty on two Motor Transit busses and journeyed to Pala in the Mohave desert. Forty-four students made the trip.

The students spent all morning studying the rock formations exposed between Olive and Corona particularly in the Santa Ana canyon. In this location a great many of the stratified formations of Orange county are displayed and also effects of the folding earth movements and faulting which gave rise to the Santa Ana mountains and the Puente hills. The sum of the ancient history of the Santa Ana river was studied, particularly the high terrace gravels the river left.

The student then went to Elsinore lake and the Alber hill clay mine which is said to be the largest clay mine in California. At Alber hill they saw fine examples of lignite coal which is interbedded with the commercial clays. The origin of Elsinore lake was discussed and then the party went on through Temecula to Pala through the picturesque canyon leading to the town. Near Pala they visited the lithia mines where some of the rare minerals of California and the United States can be obtained. Lithia is the chief product seen in this mine and it is it and adjacent mines that furnish most of the gem materials obtained in Southern California. Among these are beautiful green and pink tourmalines, pinkish, violet kunzite, and beryl. The high coloring of the minerals in the Pala district is one of the most attractive things of its kinds found anywhere. The class went through the upper workings of the mine, collected minerals from the pegmatite dikes there and started home coming via Oceanside. The trip covered approximately 160 miles.

ant receives a prize or not, he will be amply repaid by a better knowledge of this subject, which should be close to everyone's heart, as on it depends the outcome of this nation, as well as of the whole world.

Any student desiring further information concerning the writing of theses, or any material, etc., should confer with Mr. Glenn, who is in charge of the Santa Ana junior college division of the contest.

Varsity "S" Clubmen Slate First Meet Of Year

The Varsity "S" club will hold their first meeting of the year Wednesday. Due to the activities of those athletes that are members of the organization it has previously been impossible to hold a meeting.

The important problem to be decided by the club will be the proposed changing of letters. There has been some agitation this year on the question and a vote will be taken. It has been held that the present monograms, which are merely a large "S" should be so that an "A" could be included in the award as well as something that will designate the junior college as the donor.

Abbott Mason and Ray Glesner were selected as representatives of the inter-club council composed of two representatives from each of the three men's service clubs, the Bachelors, the Lions, and the Gauchos.

Judge Kenneth Morrison justice of the peace of the Santa Ana township, and member of the Senior Lions, came to the meeting to invite the entire club to be his guest at the Father and Son banquet at the Spurgeon Memorial church last night. Sixteen of the members accepted the invitation.

Friday, November 21, was chosen as the night for initiation, arrangements to be made by the initiation committee composed of Virgil Brown, chairman, Truck Lindsay, and Abbott Mason.

"Chief" Newman In Talk Before Jaysee Gridmen

With "Chief" Newman of Whittier college as the main speaker a highly successful football banquet was held in the dining hall of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church of this city. The dinner and banquet was given especially for the Santa Ana junior college men, and the turnout from that institution was great, as well as that of the high school boys and townsmen.

Chief Newman gave a very interesting address on modern college life with football as a sideline. Mr. Newman is a very successful coach and knows his football, as is shown in his powerful Whittier college eleven this season.

A chorus of forty male voices from the Frances E. Willard junior high school of this city also gave several selections which were well received. Esther Jean Davis, musical director at the Willard school was in charge of the chorus program.

Several accordion numbers were also played by Dick Love of Long Beach, and Cecil Slaback.

Coach Bill Cook, junior college mentor, and Gerald Oliver, director of men's athletics for the Santa Ana junior college and high school were present at the meeting, with the latter in charge of the speaking program.

No Grid Game On Schedule This Week

LOS ANGELES GAINS FREAK VICTORY, 6-0

Santa Ana Gridmen Outplay Cub Eleven But Lack Scoring Punch

By Bill Warren.
Just another case where the winning team is outplayed by the loser. Los Angeles junior college Cubs downed the Santa Ana Dons with the undue score of 6-0 Saturday afternoon when the local team played the fifth round of its schedule at the big city.

Nearly doubling the yardage, completed passes and every other point that a winning team usually makes, the Cookmen lost only because they lacked the power to push the oval over the goal. When any team makes 335 yards against 130 yards and 12 first downs to 3, it is expected to win, but the cards were against the Dons.

Santa Ana came close to a score in the first quarter when the Dons torpedoed the Cub line with passes that counted for much yardage. Hal Dunham snagged a pass for a gain of 30 yards, and after three unsuccessful attempts to buck the line, Orville Schuchardt, snappy Don quarterback, rifled a pass to Dunham on the 12-yard line. This vain attempt to make the much needed yardage fell short of the mark by an inch. The story was repeated in the closing minutes of the second stanza after Schuchardt and Clarence Hapes alternated in carrying the leather to the 12-yard line.

Here, after several unsuccessful attempts, the Dons were forced to give the coveted oval to the Cubs.

Cubs Score

In the third session Los Angeles made the only score after a short quick kick to Schuchardt, who fumbled when he was tackled by two hard-hitting Cubs. Los Angeles recovered and, after a series of well-aimed passes, a Cub end caught a pass and fell over the goal with out any difficulty. The try for extra point was not made when Swenson fumbled. The score, Los Angeles 6, Santa Ana 0. With a quarter in which to gain a margin on the Cubs, the Dons tried everything in these last few minutes of play, but a final thrust of the Cookmen failed when a beautiful pass was knocked out of the arms of Dunham just as he stepped over the goal.

Beall Injured

Solon Beall suffered a broken rib in the second quarter. Beall was substituting for "Toby" Groenow, who was ineligible last week. Van Meter displayed his regular form at a half-back position. Emmett Seacord displayed fine punting ability. Captain Al Kluthe at the pivot position played a whale of a game, as did Harry Clayton and "Mike" Santa Cruz, tackles and Phillip Martin at guard. Bill Harkelroad played well at end.

Melvin Beatty ran circles around the secondary defense of the Cubs. The loss of Wayne Garlock, who was injured in the Phoenix contest was felt badly when the Padres needed a few valued inches to make first downs.

With conferences hopes gone, the Dons enter training for their last league fray with Fullerton Saturday, November 29.

FULLERTON GAME

If the Dons lose to the Yellow-jackets November 29, it won't be because they want Fullerton to shave. It will be because they are not prepared to damage Coach Art Nunn's powerful attack. Several weeks ago the stronger sex at Fullerton decided not to shave until Santa Ana was defeated by Fullerton in some kind of athletic competition. We have heard of children being dispelled because their beards were continually soaking up all the ink in the ink-wells.

SOME KICK

Bud Brubaker of Loyola kicked a 108 yard punt against the California Aggies last Saturday. He stood on his goal line and kicked a ball that wound up eight yards behind the opponent's goal line. Some kick, eh?

SCORE BOARD

Let us hope that by the time the 1931 football season rolls around the score board which adorns Poly field will be changed so that SANTA ANA will appear across the top of the huge indicator. The way it is now, the word SAINTS is listed there, advertising the Santa Ana high school. This is all right, but the junior college also plays on that field, and if the word SANTA ANA were painted thereon, it would give our junior college athletic visitors the right impression as to the identity of the college's athletic name. Although the local junior college comprises a group of students known as THE DONS, outsiders are continually calling the Santa Ana collegians SAINTS. This mistake, if any check-up were to be made, could be traced to the streamer appearing on Poly field's scoreboard.

FRANK WYKOFF

Frank Wykoff of the University of Southern California has been officially accredited as the first sprinter in history to cover 100 yards in 9 2-5 seconds without starting blocks or a favoring wind, according to reports from the National Amateur Athletic Union convention. Wykoff is a product of the Glendale high school and junior college athletic departments.

COMPTON DESERVES IT

When a team journeys through the Southern California junior college football conference schedule without meeting defeat, as the Compton Tartars have done, there should be no alibis circulated after the season is over. Every college cannot be given the title. The only reason that Compton heads the list is because the Tartars have played a better brand of ball than their neighbors. Excuses are good in some cases, but as a general rule, the standings tell the story.

HACK WILSON

Chicago's home-run king of the National League, Hack Wilson, will take part in a Thanksgiving charity production at Martinsburg, West Virginia. Wilson, who was voted the most valuable player in his league in 1930, will give his "hometowners" a treat by appearing in a vaudeville skit, one of the main parts of a program to be sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

FOOTBALL PICTURES

The Don was to have run some action pictures of the Santa Ana-Fullerton junior college championship football game of last year in this issue, but because of the postponement of the contest, the pictures will appear next week.

JAYSEE GRID FANS TO SEE FINAL CLASH

Santa Ana, Fullerton Meet On Neighboring City Field Saturday

BULLETIN

The Santa Ana-Fullerton junior college football game, which many thought would be staged this Saturday, will not be played until a week from Saturday, November 29. Fullerton, thinking the game would be played Thanksgiving day, scheduled a practice tilt with the Tempe State Teachers' College of Arizona for this Saturday, thereby being unable to meet the Dons.

If the Don football team doesn't SNAP out of it, Fullerton junior college is going to whip the Sox off Santa Ana on November 29 when these two grid teams swing into the Southern California jaysee conference's season finale at Fullerton.

This was the opinion today of John J. Fan, who has been following accounts of the progress made by the teams of both institutions. Fresh from a 13 to 12 victory over the powerful Vikings of Long Beach, the Fullerton Yellowjackets are in the pink of condition, while Santa Ana, having lost to Los Angeles Saturday 6 to 0 and to Glendale the preceding week 15 to 6, has just about forgotten how it feels "to win the old ball game".

Revises Lineup

Coach Bill Cook revised his starting lineup for the Los Angeles game last week and may do the same thing November 29. Harry Lake, former tackle, was given the call at guard over Gene Olsen and Kermit McCoy, regulars. Solon Beall replaced Toby Groenow at end. Groenow became ineligible at the last moment. Ervin Watkins started at half instead of Franklin Van Meter, while Kioshi Shigekawa saw starting action at fullback instead of Clarence Hapes, 3-in-1 man mountain from Garden Grove.

Kermit Wood looms as Fullerton's big threat. Wood takes care of a halfback position and passes brilliantly. McElheny, Fullerton's other halfback, is usually on the receiving end of Wood's throws. Ask the Long Beach Vikings to tell you about these two gridmen, who so gallantly humbled the Beach city in 1929.

Quarterback Foltz and fullback Hezmalhach of the Yellowjackets are the main cogs in Fullerton's line-driving machine. Williams and Peterson are the wingmen; Bowie and Giel-feldt, tackles; Gall and Del Giorgio, guards; and Chesley, center.

Rivalry Keen

Fullerton has a much smoother machine than that of October, when it spilled Los Angeles 14 to 12. Now that Los Angeles has cored a 6 to 0 win over Santa Ana, the odds surely do not favor the Cookmen in Saturday's classic. There is a great rivalry between Santa Ana and Fullerton, however, and this rivalry will cause Santa Ana to fight its deadliest, as has been the case in past seasons.

Fans will recall that breath-taking contest of last season when

Compton-Pasadena Tilt Was Thriller Of Week's Play

Southern California junior college football fans were still discussing the Compton-Pasadena game of last Saturday, which turned out to be one of the most thrilling contests of the grid season.

Dell Canfield, who can pass and run also, and Howard Kruger, halfback flash, entered the game during the final three minutes of play and drove 70 yards down the field to score, a feat which gave Compton the game by a 12 to 8 count. Tom "fancy" Yancey, Tartar quarterback, shared honors with Canfield, in the starring department, each player running and passing to perfection. John Sexias played brilliantly for Pasadena.

Compton's starting backfield included Yancey, Captain McKee, Slagle and Smith, while that of Pasadena was composed of Mathews, Bonelli, Seago and Brock.

Fullerton Downs Viking Gridders

Kermit Wood's conversion in the third quarter gave Fullerton junior college a 13 to 12 victory over the Long Beach Viking gridders Saturday.

Jack Sweetnam wrapped his arms around a pass over the Fullerton goal on a play after the timekeeper had sounded his gun, raising the score from a 13 to 13 deadlock to a 19 to 13 victory for the Dons.

Lineup Given

Santa Ana's starting lineup November 29 probably will include Hal Dunham and Solon Beall at end, Harry Clayton and Mike Santa Cruz at tackle, Phillip Martin and Harry Lake at guard, Captain Al Kluthe at center, and Orville Schuchardt, Emmett Seacord, Franklin Van Meter and Clarence Hapes in the backfield. Ervin Watkins and Kioshi Shigekawa may replace Van Meter and Hapes at the start, but it is dead certain that Schuchardt and Seacord will receive the initial nod unless injuries occur in practice. Schuchardt is flashy, while Seacord is the best passer on the team.

Compton Gridmen Named Champions Of 1930-31 Year

Cinching the 1930 Southern California junior college grid pennant by defeating Pasadena 12 to 8 last Saturday, Compton, acclaimed to be one of the squarest-shooting teams in the league, today was recalling a brilliant undefeated year for its institution.

Although the Tartars have Glendale to face Thanksgiving Day, "Deacon" Pine, a former Orange high school player, is confident that his well-drilled Compton team will hold its own against the Buccaneers, who defeated Santa Ana 14 to 6 after Compton had tied the local Dons 6 to 6.

There will be no games this Saturday. Thanksgiving Day has been set for all jaysee contests except the Santa Ana-Fullerton fray, which will be played at Fullerton on Saturday, November 29.

Santa Ana Freshmen Women Nose Out Sophomores By 21-19 Score

Women basketballs representing the freshmen ranks of the Santa Ana junior college today had a permanent victory inscribed on their record books, denoting the gain of two wins out of three contests, all of which were held with the college sophomores and were in the form of a championship tournament.

With both teams performing fast and brilliant plays, the final game, which was staged in Andrews gymnasium last week, turned out to be the most thrilling of the three-game series. When the whistle was blown at the end of several sessions of play, it was found that the sophomores had bowed to their underclassmen, 21 to 19.
